

Welcome to the Interview Doc

Hello and thank you for choosing to interview me! Here's a brief guide to some of the experiences on my resume, organized by common use cases in an interview context. What would you like to know?

Can I make technology easy to understand?

Ask me about...

- designing Git tutorials for Cornell Creative Computing
- creating content and teaching a CS course at UCSD Upward Bound

Can I identify and meet user needs?

Ask me about...

- improving Cornell's financial aid website through user research
- engaging the specific interests of diverse groups at the Neural Network

Can I clearly communicate key information?

Ask me about...

- tutoring writers of every kind at the Cornell Writing Center
- using storytelling to ease the transition to college at HENS comics

Can I adapt to new technologies?

Ask me about...

- working as a software engineer at Whiteout Solutions and ChromaCode
- studying CS at Cornell University, where I'm taking AI and NLP

Can I organize cross-functional teams?

Ask me about...

- helping students work with their communities at the Milstein Program
- creating software docs for students at CCC and senior devs at Whiteout

Can I learn what I don't know?

Ask me about...

- stepping out of my comfort zone with everything from school to stage
- approaching challenges with enthusiasm and determination

I love technology, I love writing, and I'd love to work with you!
